Keep your ghouls and goblins safe this Halloween

There are lots of things to think about when getting your child ready for a rousing night of trick or treating. Make sure safety is top priority. From choosing a costume to traffic rules and trick or treating, make sure to discuss safety with your children this Halloween.

Start with the costume

How will it weather? As Canadians we know Oct. 31 can offer an interesting seasonal sampling from the rare summer breeze to a full blown blizzard. Check the weather and make sure your child's costume can accommodate layers.

Beware of billowing. Check the length of sleeves and hemlines for safety. Long, billowing sleeves can be a fire risk around candles, while tails and trains can get caught under eager feet. Lift, pin or tuck any material that may be a concern.

Drop the mask. Whenever possible choose child safe makeup over a mask. If a mask is preferred make sure it doesn't obstruct your child's vision, breathing or hearing.

Be visible. Make sure your child is easy to spot in the dark. Help them choose a brightly coloured costume, add reflective tape to dark ones, include fun light up details or have them carry a flashlight, anything that makes them more visible to passing motorists.

Review traffic and route basics

Everyone stops at the stop sign. Make sure children understand to stop at stop signs especially when a car is present. Children should make eye contact with the driver before crossing safely in front of the vehicle.

Use the crosswalks. Encourage children to cross only at safe points like corners or crosswalks. Make sure they know to look both ways before crossing the street and not to run out on the road. Stay on the sidewalk for safety.

Hold hands. Young children should hold hands with each other or parents when crossing the street.

Supervise for safety. Make sure younger children are well supervised at all times. For older children set up checkpoints in the neighborhood so you can monitor their progress without being too intrusive. Encourage kids to trick or treat in groups for safety.

Stay in sight. Tell children to only visit well-lit homes with an entrance that is visible from the sidewalk. Under no circumstance should they go inside the home of a stranger alone.

Candy safety

Feed the Beasts. Before you send your kids out to collect pillow cases of candy feed them a healthy meal. Children are less likely to snack on unchecked treats if they are nice and full.

Check out the treats. Candy tampering is a rare occurrence but it's a good idea to sort through the goodies to make sure there are no hygiene or allergy concerns. Remove items that have no/broken wrappers, are expired or contain allergens.

Teach moderation. We know eating candy until you're sick is a time honoured Halloween tradition but let's try and spare those little tummies. Instead encourage children to eat a piece a day or share with their friends at school.

Finding the right support at the right time

Alzheimer Society's panel discussion to give information on resources available

As part of their seventh annual MacQuarrie Education Series, the Alzheimer Society of Peterborough, Kawartha Lakes, Northumberland and Haliburton is offering an informative panel discussion featuring presentations by four local community organizations: the Alzheimer Society, the Central East Community Care Access Centre, Community Support Services, and the Geriatric Assessment Intervention Network. This year's special event, entitled "Who Ya Gonna Call? Finding the Right Support at the Right Time" offers participants an opportunity to learn about the services of these local community organizations, the tools and resources that are available, and information about when and how to access them in order to meet their unique needs.

This panel discussion will be offered in five communities, making this important education accessible to individuals across our four county service area. In Haliburton, the panel discussion event will be held on Thursday, Nov. 12, from 1 to 3:30 p.m. at the Haliburton Highlands Hospital Ruth Parkes Room. Participants are asked to register for this free event by calling the Alzheimer Society office.

Alzheimer's disease is the most common form of dementia, affecting people of all races, religions and socio-economic backgrounds. Over 200,000 Ontarians have dementia and the numbers are expected to double by 2038. The better we understand the illness, the better we will be able to support persons with dementia to maintain their quality of life – whether they are our friends, family members, clients, or neighbours.

"Given the increasing incidence of dementia and of those individuals and families navigating the dementia journey, there is a much greater interest than ever in learning more about the programs, services and resources that are available to assist them in accessing the right supports at the right time," says Robin Arnott, public education co-ordinator. "This interactive panel discussion provides an excellent opportunity for people to learn more about how to make their journey a little easier to navigate." Registration is now open. For more information, go to the Events listing at www.alzheimer.ca/pklnh or contact the Alzheimer Society at 705-878-0126 or 1-800-765-0515.

Amazing Iceland!

Linda Coneybeare
Travel Plus

I am recently back from my wonderful trip to Iceland. It was overwhelmingly beautiful and I am so excited to tell you about this wonderful country.

I flew nonstop from Toronto to Reyjkavik: a five-hour flight and four-hour time zone change. Not difficult at all.

When I arrived in Reykjavik they were experiencing gale force winds and heavy rain. Oh dear, I thought, but no worries the next day it changed.

Iceland weather is like that-it changes about every 10 minutes.

I stayed in Reykjavik the first night, with accommodation provided by Icelandic Airlines' hotel chain – the Natura Hotel, close by the domestic airport. This was a great location as we flew (just a 45 minute flight) the next morning to the northern city (population 18,000) of Akureyki. I love this city! It is located on a fjord and offers stunning view of the mountains, as well as a charming cobblestoned main square. And great shopping – "Icewear" is a popular store where I was able to purchase some little souvenirs for my children and grandchildren (And an Icelandic sweater for myself). In the evening we were taken out to search the sky for the Northern Lights. This amazing phenomena is most visible in early October. What a breathtaking sight – long streamers of vivid emerald green shimmering across the sky. Wow!

For the next two days our small group of 14 travel agents were escorted by the most wonderful guides of Saga Travel. This company knows Iceland – explaining all the geographic marvels-such as the hot mud pools bubbling up from below the earth, as well as steam fissures and fumeroles. I stood over a steam fissure, and it felt like a hot steam bath but this steam was coming from the centre of the earth – what an experience! We also enjoyed ourselves in the natural hot springs-think of it as a giant hot tub but with the water provided by the never ending hot mineral springs-with views over the lava rock hills and glistening fjords. The most well known hot springs area is located near Reykjavik's International Airport – the Blue Lagoon.

And blue it is. We spent 3 hours there enjoying the 35˚C-40˚C water before boarding our flight home to Toronto. What a way to enjoy the last few hours of this amazing trip.

Iceland is a destination that I strongly recommend-however, I do suggest going with an escorted tour company, such as Insight Vacations. If you do want a more independent tour then perhaps a compromise: I can arrange airfare with Icelandic, transfers, accommodation and tours from Rekjavik – the Golden Circle – amazing waterfalls and volcanic landscapes. Then a flight up to my beautiful city of Akureyri. There Saga Travel can meet you and transfer you to your hotel (I recommend the Kea Hotel – easy to remember that hotel rhymes with IKEA) and their expert guide to take you out in car or minivan to see all the natural wonders of Iceland

Please come by and ask me more about this amazing country. I absolutely love this place!

Machenzie is enjoying a few days in Florida with her mother and sister, and then later in November I am off again – this time to Jordan! Yes, Amman, Wadi Rum, Aqaba and the UNESCO World Heritage Site, Petra, more about this trip later.

The faces behind the Good Food Box program

Thank you to the behind the scenes heroes of the Good Food Box Program. Each month Lions from the Haliburton and District Lions Club meet at the A.J. LaRue Arena to put together boxes of fresh fruits and vegetables. Using the van provided by Haliburton Solar and Wind and drivers from Haliburton Rotary Club, the Good Food Boxes are delivered throughout the county. And, each month the behind the scenes heroes, Ray Miscio and Richie Lyddiatt and many other staff from the Dysart et al parks and recreation department are there to lend a hand. Thank you heroes and enjoy a hearty breakfast at Maple Ave. Tap andGrill. Good Food Box co-ordinator, Lion Mary Lawr reminds us that you can order a Good Food Box for just $15 a month. For more information, please call Mary at 705-448-1128.

N Y A C D

Answer: Candy

Drivers can make several adjustments to make their fall road trips more affordable.

Enjoy a frugal fall road trip

Road trips are a staple of autumn for many motorists.

Fall road trips rarely take drivers too far away from home, but travelling can still be costly. Fortunately, there are many ways to make road trips more affordable without sacrificing fun.

- Explore alternatives to more traditional lodging. If your road trip includes an overnight stay, consider alternatives to traditional lodging. Hotels might stretch your budget, but depending on where you plan to go, you might have some less traditional alternatives. Airbnb.com allows homeowners and even some apartment dwellers to rent their homes and apartments to travellers, and these listings may pale in comparison to rates offered by nearby hotels. If weather permits, look for local campsites and spend your nights sleeping outdoors under the autumn stars. If you prefer hotels, look for deals on sites like Priceline.com or Hotwire.com, which may offer heavy discounts on rooms.
- Take steps to conserve fuel. Lodging might prove your biggest expense on a fall road trip, but fuel likely won't be too far behind. Drivers can cut fuel costs in several ways. Before beginning your trip, take your car in for a tuneup so any issues that might affect fuel efficiency are addressed before you hit the open road. Poorly inflated tires force the engine to work harder and burn more fuel, so make sure tire pressure matches the levels recommended in your owner's manual before embarking on your trip and even along the way if you feel your car is not running as smoothly as it could be. Another way to conserve fuel is to remove excess items from the trunk. If you don't plan to hit the links on your trip, leave your golf clubs at home.

- Plot your route. Spontaneity may make fall road trips more fun, but drivers looking to save money should plot their routes in advance so they can avoid potentially costly problems like detours or road work that can waste fuel and lead to hours sitting in traffic. Use a GPS device during your trip so you can be alerted to any unexpected developments that might cost you time and money. Plotting your route in advance also allows you to find affordable dining and lodging options and choose roads that don't require drivers to pay tolls.
- Invite some friends and family along. Inviting friends and family on a weekend getaway can make the trip more fun and more affordable. If you have room in the car, inviting friends along allows you to split fuel costs, and you may even save on lodging if you find a hotel that won't charge for extra guests in the room. Friends and family also can help split the cost of supplies.
- Bring your own food. Food is another big expense road trippers must account for. But you can save money on food by bringing your own meals along on the trip. Prepare some sandwiches the morning that you leave and keep them fresh in a cooler so you don't have to pay for lunch. In addition, pack some snacks so you and your passengers can quickly and affordably quell any hunger pangs that arise while you're on the road. If you plan to stay in a place with its own kitchen, cook your own dinners so you don't have to spend money dining out.

Road trips are a staple of autumn, when drivers can still enjoy the open road without breaking the bank.

Maintain tire balance and alignment for a smooth ride

It is easy for motorists to take their tires for granted when everything is working correctly. Wheels and suspension systems bear the weight of cars and trucks and must bear the brunt of rough roads, pot holes and any additional obstacles, so some wear and tear is to be expected.

Many drivers know to monitor their tire pressure, but it's also important to check for worn treads and inspect tires for punctures or damage. Proper tire alignment and balance also is essential for a comfortable and smooth ride.

Balance

Balancing tires involves equalizing the weight of the combined tire and wheel assembly so that each tire spins smoothly on the road. Tires are mounted on the wheel assembly, and the chances of this assembly having precise weight distribution is nearly impossible without a little help. According to Discount Tire, the slightest imbalance in the tires, even as little as half an ounce, can be felt by drivers. Unequal mass can make tires wobble, causing noticeable vibrations.

Mechanics will test tire balance by putting it on a balancing machine. The machine will spin the tire and determine the tire's heaviest point. Counteracting weights will be placed on the tire hubs to create a more uniform balance of weight. Lead weights are often used, but some are being phased out for other metals, such as zinc, because of the medical and environmental implications of lead.

Tires that are not balanced will not only cause vibration, they also can lead to uneven wear.

Alignment

Tire alignment is another way to reduce wear on tires and help avoid steering and "pulling" problems. Bridgestone Tires defines tire alignment as an adjustment of the vehicle's suspension, or the system that connects a vehicle to its wheels.

When tires are not properly aligned, drivers may notice uneven tread wear. Misaligned tires also may cause the vehicle to pull to the left or right. Drivers who notice their steering wheel is off-center or vibrating when they are driving may need to adjust their tires' alignment.

Camber, or the inward or outward angle of the tire when viewed from the front of the vehicle, will be adjusted. In addition, "toe," or the extent to which the tires turn inward or outward when viewed from above, will be adjusted. Caster angle also helps balance steering, stability and cornering. Caster is the angle of your steering axis when viewed from the side of your vehicle.

When tires are balanced correctly and aligned, vehicles will offer a smooth ride with little to no vibrations. Having tires serviced can maximize their performance and lifespan.

Snow tires a worthy investment

Automotive experts say that snow tires are a worthy investment that improve manoeuvrability and stopping power on winter roads. Many people leave all-season tires on their vehicles throughout the year, but snow tires may help decrease snow-related accidents and may even help drivers save money on their auto insurance.

Consumer Reports says that autumn is the best time to buy snow tires. As drivers prepare their vehicles for winter, the following snow tire tutorial can shed some light on why driving in winter is safer with snow tires.

- Snow tires are particularly helpful for people who cannot wait for roads to be cleared before they begin their days. Snow tires provide greater traction in wet, snowy or slushy conditions. Snow tires provide ample grip and make it easier for cars to turn corners and stop on slick roads.
- As the mercury falls, the rubber used to make traditional tires can become hard and less pliable, compromising its ability to grip the road. However, many snow tires are made with a specialized rubber that remains supple even in very cold temperatures, making it easier for the tire to hug the roadways even when those roads are in poor condition.
- People who live in very cold climates and areas where snow and ice dominate the landscape for several months per year often find all-season tires are inadequate and likely to slip. Snow tires make for safer alternatives in such regions.
- Snow tires are typically manufactured the previous summer, meaning inventory is finite, according to Consumer Reports. Drivers who wait until the first snowstorm to purchase their snow tires may encounter limited inventory and find it difficult to locate the right size tire for their vehicles. That's why it's important to shop early.
- Retire snow tires earlier than you would all-season tires. Snow tires lose almost all of their effectiveness once they reach 6/32-inch deep tread.

Snow tires can make roads safer for drivers who live in locales with long, snowy winters. They also are ideal for drivers who desire more traction, cornering and stopping capacity on winter roadways.

Waxing 101: What to know before waxing your car

Waxing a car is a great way to maintain its exterior. Including waxing as part of your routine vehicle maintenance can protect the car or truck from some natural hazards, including sun damage, pollen and the dirt and grime that can accumulate on a car over time.

Motorists unfamiliar with waxing may be intimidated by the sheer volume of waxes on the shelves at their local automotive supply stores, which will no doubt offer an array of both liquid and paste waxes as well as many spray waxes. When testing waxes in 2013, Consumer Reports found that liquid and paste waxes were relatively equal with regard to their effectiveness, while spray waxes were very convenient though not very durable.

Waxing a vehicle is no small task, and drivers should learn as much as they can about car wax and the different types of waxes before attempting the job themselves.

The differences between waxes

In their study of liquid, paste and spray waxes, Consumer Reports found that paste waxes were easier to apply than liquid waxes, but that the overall performance of paste waxes fell short of liquid waxes. Liquid waxes were very durable and provided the gloss many motorists look for when waxing their vehicles. But liquid waxes were difficult to apply evenly, something first timers should consider when choosing a wax. Spray waxes were convenient and easy to use, and many can be wiped off without drying. But Consumer Reports found spray waxes were not as durable as liquid or paste waxes, so they may need to be applied more frequently.

Because waxing is done to protect a car and improve its appearance, it's important that drivers waxing their vehicles for the first time test the wax on an area of their vehicles that is not easily seen to the naked eye. This affords some room for error as you learn the waxing ropes while also allowing you to test out different waxes until you find the right fit.

There are some additional tricks drivers can employ when waxing their vehicles that can make the job easier and the wax that much more effective.

- Wash first, then wax. Make sure you give your car or truck a good wash before you apply any wax. Allow the car to dry completely before applying any wax.
- Avoid sunlight. Consumer Reports notes that sunlight can soften paint and make it susceptible to scratching, so avoid washing and waxing your car in direct sunlight.
- Use microfibre towels. Microfibre towels were found to be more effective than cloth rags at removing residue. In addition, cloth rags can trap dirt and scratch finishes, so opt for lamb's wool mitts instead.
- Go from top to bottom. The bottom of a vehicle is more susceptible to grime, so work your way down when waxing so you are not contaminating your towels. A contaminated towel increases the risk of scratching your vehicle's exterior.

> When waxing your vehicle, the right wax and technique can make all the difference.

A fresh coat of wax can protect cars and trucks from the elements, including fallen leaves.

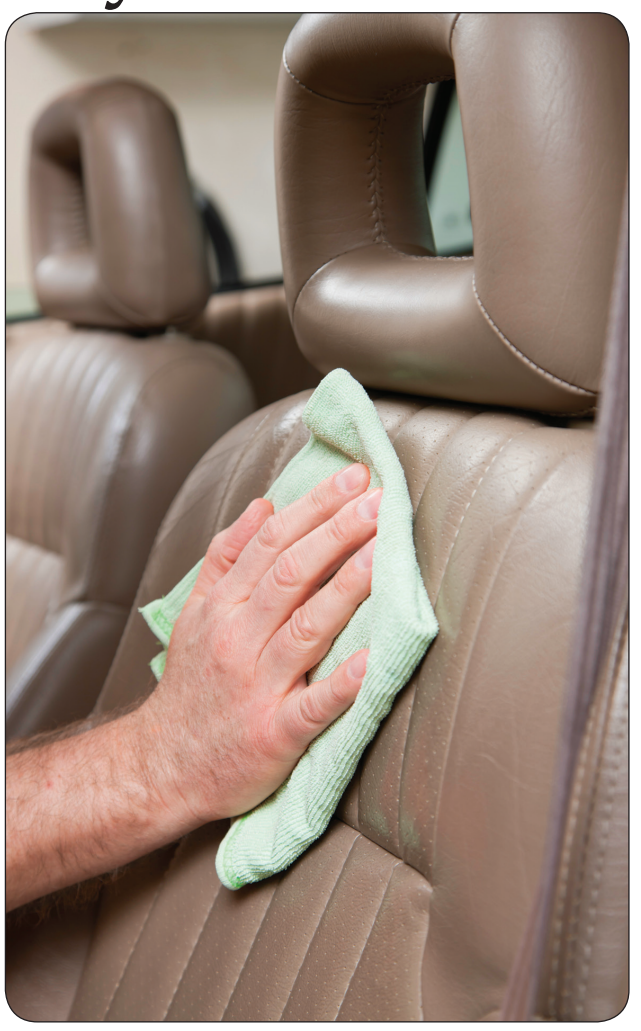
Simple ways to extend the life of your vehicle

According to data from TrueCar.com, in 2012 the average new car cost $30,500. That's a considerable expense, especially at a time when fuel costs remain high and cost of living continues to rise.

Because new cars have become so expensive, more and more vehicle owners are looking for ways to extend the life of their vehicles. The longer a car can stay on the road, the better an investment that vehicle becomes. Fortunately, there are several steps vehicle owners can take that should ensure their vehicles stay on the road for years to come.

- Scale back on short trips. The toll cold starts take on a vehicle can add up over time. When a car is started, condensation builds up in the vehicle's exhaust system. On longer trips, that condensation will gradually evaporate. However, on short trips, that condensation often does not have enough time to evaporate, and over time too many short trips will lead to an accumulation of water in the muffler that can lead to rust and rust holes on the muffler. Short trips also can negatively affect gas mileage. When possible, leave your car at home on trips into town when you can just as easily walk or ride a bicycle. Over time, reducing the amount of short trips you take in your car will greatly reduce wear and tear on your vehicle and improve your fuel efficiency as well.
- Stick to the manufacturer's recommended maintenance schedule. Adhering to your vehicle's maintenance schedule serves many purposes, including improving the its durability and protecting various components, including its cooling system and drivetrain. While many manufacturers used to recommend changing a vehicle's oil every 3,000 miles, many of today's newer automobiles need their oil changed less frequently. Check your owner's manual for manufacturer recommendations regarding oil changes, and don't forget to replace the oil filter when changing your vehicle's oil.
- Pay attention to brake pads. Brake pads that are allowed to wear down can cause damage to the brakes' rotors and calipers. That damage can prove costly and make things harder on your vehicle. Keep an eye on your vehicle's brake pads, which are far less expensive to replace than rotors and calipers, and do not allow them to wear down to metal.
- Keep your tires properly inflated. Tires that are under-inflated will negatively impact your vehicle's fuel efficiency. In addition, the tires' life expectancy is reduced considerably when tires are not properly inflated. Routinely check your tire pressure, especially if you drive a lot, and keep tires inflated at the pressure recommended in your vehicle's owner's manual.
- Be mindful when filling up your tank. Many people do not pay much attention to their surroundings when pulling into the filling station. But when you fill up can impact your car's life expectancy. Perhaps the worst time to fill your tank is when the fuel tanker is in the gas station refilling the underground tanks. That's because the process of filling the underground tanks can stir up sediment that had settled at the bottom of those tanks. If that sediment finds its way into your vehicle's gas tank, it can clog filters and fuel injectors and negatively affect the vehicle's performance. So unless your car is running on empty, avoid refilling its gas tank when the tanker is still in the station.
- Take care of your vehicle's interior, too. Caring for a car is not just about being good to what's under the hood. Caring for the car's interior will not necessarily impact its performance, but a well-kept interior will improve how you look at your vehicle and how much you enjoy driving it. The longer you enjoy driving your vehicle, the longer you are likely to keep it. Preserve the vehicle's door and window seals; clean the dashboard, including the gauges, vacuum the floor mats; and wipe down the vehicle's interior, whether it's cloth or leather. Keeping up the appearance of the car's interior will make the vehicle more enjoyable to drive and increase its value at resale.



Keeping a vehicle's interior clean can make it more enjoyable to drive while encouraging owners to keep their cars for longer periods of time.

Erin's Editions

Erin Kernohan-Berning
Branch Services Librarian

Last month Bessie explored the weird and wonderful theme of running away with the circus from our Fifth Business Reading Map. Fifth Business by Robertson Davies is our One Book One Community selection and winner of Haliburton County Reads. You can pick up our reading map – which is full of thematically related books to enjoy – at any of our eight branches, as well as view it online at www.haliburtonlibrary.ca by click on the One Book One Community link.

In Fifth Business by Robertson Davies, Paul Dempster not only runs away with the circus, but transforms himself into the mysterious magician Magnus Eisengrim, in an effort to leave his childhood in Deptford, and the small town drama swirling around it, behind. Paul isn't the only one who tries to distance himself from his small town upbringing – Dunstan Ramsey (who grew up as Dunstable), and Boy Staunton (who grew up as Boyd) both change their names in an effort to leave the events in Deptford behind.

In recognition of this effort to change identities, one of the themes on our reading map is "New Identities" and includes books about characters who are grappling with their identity, or who assume a new identity. This category includes Haliburton County Reads finalist, Punishment by Linden MacIntyre. In Punishment, Tony Breau (who grew up Tony MacMillan) is forced into early retirement, returning to his rural Cape Breton town of St. Ninian to lick his wounds. Tony grew up the "adopted kid," and is used to feeling like an outsider, changing his name from MacMillan to Breau as a way to distance himself from that feeling. Upon his arrival home, and despite his efforts to keep a low profile, he is drawn into a town tragedy. A young girl, and granddaughter of Tony's first love, has died under suspicious circumstances and that suspicion has fallen squarely on ex-con Dwayne Strickland, a more troubled son of St. Ninian who Tony crossed paths with in the system. Tony isn't convinced that Dwayne is capable of murder, but the townspeople have already started taking sides and Tony has to figure out how to do the right thing while fighting a mob mentality looking for vengeance.

Meanwhile, 24 hour news networks and newspapers buzz with the impending war in Iraq and the search for weapons of mass destruction. As talk in the corner store flips between controversy locally and controversy internationally, people find themselves identified not by the complex people they are, but branded by what side they are on – "ours" or "theirs" – or their hesitance to take a side. Under this pressure Tony becomes very stoic in a crowd, but works through his thoughts with a canine companion, the only one he can be himself around. In these scenes we get the most insight into who Tony Breau really is.

While Punishment could have fit into many other categories on our reading map, including our October Online Book Club theme "Small Town Gothic," as well as "Fateful Events" and "Sinners and Saints," it's the question of identity – who are you and how to stay true to yourself when the hardest thing is doing the right thing – that really drives the story.

Linden MacIntyre is the featured author at the Friends of the Haliburton County Public Library's 10th annual Book Gala and Silent Auction on Nov. 8, 1 p.m. at the Pinestone Resort. Punishment will be available for sale by Master's Bookstore at the event. Tickets are $25 and can be purchased at Master's Bookstore, or by calling Brenda at 705-457-2695.

Bottle drive to help end Polio internationally

The Rotary Club of Haliburton is hosting a bottle/can drive on Saturday, Oct. 31 at the Haliburton Beer Store. Proceeds from this drive will be used to help eradicate polio in the world. All Beer Store and LCBO empties will be accepted.

Most people know the Haliburton Rotary Club for what we do locally. The historic locomotive, the bandshell, the town clock, donations to Food for Kids, Volunteer Dental Outreach, food bank, heat bank, high school scholarships, Razzamataz Shows, to name a few, but we are part of Rotary International and since 1985 Rotary has contributed nearly $1.2 billion and countless volunteer hours to the protection of more than two billion children in 122 countries. When Rotary began the fight in 1985, polio affected 350,000 people, mostly children, in 125 countries every year. Since then, polio has been reduced by more than 99 per cent.

After nearly 30 years, the Global Polio Eradication Initiative is on the brink of making history.

Every dollar Rotary raises will be matched two-to-one by the Bill and Melinda Gates Foundation for polio eradication efforts through 2018.

Last year more than $650 was raised through the drive, which (adding in the Gates Foundation match) is enough to immunize over 3,250 children. With the community's support, we hope to do even more this year.

For more information or to make a donation, please contact Richard van Nood at 705-457-1500 or email: thevannoods@gmail.com.

Community organizations and county drive rural transportation project forward

Members of the Rural Transportation Options (RTO) committee, the Community Transportation Partnership and the County of Haliburton are excited to announce a new project to help increase access to transportation services in Haliburton County.

Meant to speed up the process for those looking for rides in our area, the project is one of 22 the provincial Ministry of Transportation approved as part of their Community Transportation Pilot Grant Program.

"I am very excited to be a part of this initiative" says project co-ordinator Tina Jackson. "There is much opportunity here to focus on bringing the community as well as local and provincial governments on board to help establish a more connected community."

The Haliburton County project will see a marketing and promotion component as well as the development of an information and referral service, including an integrated website, toll-free phone number and the support of a system navigator to aid community members in finding and accessing appropriate transportation options. The initiative will roll out over the course of 20 months, concluding with an evaluation in March 2017.

"Healthy and liveable communities are supported by multimodal transportation systems which are safe, energy efficient, and connective," reports Charlsey White, director of planning for the county. "The County of Haliburton supports community transportation initiatives and encourages all residents to participate in making this project a success."

While Haliburton County is not served by a traditional public transit system, it benefits from having a network of different transportation services available. This project will enhance that system by strengthening collaborations between existing service providers and offering assistance navigating that system to residents who are looking for rides. The project will also work to collect information and statistics to help support future investments to further develop the transportation network in Haliburton County.

"We know that access to transportation in rural areas is closely tied to socioeconomic factors and that in order to have a vibrant, healthy community, residents must be able to access health care, recreational and social activities, educational and employment opportunities," says Jackson. "This project is a step forward in addressing the transportation needs of our community and ensuring that transportation remains a front burner topic."

The Rural Transportation Options (RTO) committee has been the driving force behind several research projects related to rural transportation and has been working on developing viable transportation alternatives to personal car ownership in the community since 2010. RTO is a part of the Haliburton County Community Cooperative.

While the project is being managed by RTO, the Community Transportation Partnership (CTP) will act as an Advisory Committee for the project. CTP is made up of representatives from the County of Haliburton, local transportation providers and concerned community agencies.

For more information on the project, please contact Tina Jackson at 705- 464-2422.

Hello-ween

Living Large

Humour by Steve Galea

As I write this, Halloween is rapidly approaching. This is the time of year when we simultaneously try to scare each other and support the dental industry. Some people love this holiday as it is.

Frankly, I've become a little bored with it ever since the price of paper made toilet papering houses exorbitantly expensive.

That's why I've come up with 10 ways to rejuvenate my interest in Halloween. Feel free to use them.

1. Instead of carving pumpkins, carve tangerines to trick kids into thinking the miniaturized chocolate bars are bigger.
2. Place a lawn mower on your front lawn. There's nothing scarier to most kids.
3. Dress your scarecrows up like local math teachers.
4. For the males, give out treats while wearing a cheerleading outfit and when people say nice costume, reply, "Oh, that's right. It's Halloween today…"
5. How about scaring the parents by asking for HST on all the treats handed out?
6. When kids yell "trick or treat" point over their shoulder and when they look the other way, slam the door and yell, "How's that for a trick?"
7. After they chant, "Trick or treat, smell my feet, give me something good to eat" hand them a bowl of kale. They'll never ask anyone to smell their feet again.
8. Have a costume ready to go in case you run out of candy.
9. When the kids ask you what you are dressed up as, tell them a depressed middle-aged adult. They'll probably give back the candy you gave them.
10. Wear a Leafs jersey. That way any real zombies will know you don't have enough brain to snack on.
